

NEWS OF THE DAY

"To show the very age and body of the Times."

In Cleveland, Ohio, L. A. Beaton, jeweler, went to his store as usual Sunday morning to wind watches and look over the establishment, when he was confronted by a masked burglar, armed with a knife, who demanded his surrender. Beaton seized a hatchet, but was felled senseless by a second burglar from behind. The thieves then rifled the safe of diamonds and watches, the value of which cannot now be ascertained. They took a $600 breastpin from Beaton's bosom. The jeweler recovered after lying senseless two hours and crawled to the door where he obtained assistance.

In a Philadelphia boarding-house, Saturday evening, James Daggert, aged thirty-five, stabbed and instantly killed Ferdinand Romelman, aged fifty-three. The two, who were at supper, re-opened an argument they had had the evening previous concerning the refunding of sugar. Romelman called Daggert a harsh name, whereupon the latter drew a knife and stabbed the former to the heart. Daggert made his escape and has not been arrested.

The jury in the case of Stout vs. Killen, which has been on trial during the past week at D. ver. Del., on Saturday, rendered a verdict for the defendant. This gives the Rev. Mr. Hall a life interest in his wife's estate, the result being contingent on the question whether the circulation of the blood in the child after birth was "life" sufficient to give it a separate, independent existence, apart from any evidence of respiration.

The Treasury Department acquiesces in the judicial decision that German sausages are exempt from duty under the special provision for bologna sausages, and therefore no appeal will be taken to the Supreme Court. The department decides that tobacco scraps are subject to duty at the rate of 30 per cent. ad valorem, under the provision of the tariff for unmanufactured tobacco.

At Chillicothe, Wis., Geo. Miller, a one-armed soldier, shot John Namis, proprietor of a hotel and Henry Kuehl, hostler, and then proceeded to the cemetery and shot himself. Of the three men only Kuehl can possibly recover. The cause of the tragedy was a quarrel over a board bill.

The new Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, in New York, R. v. Dr. John Hall, pastor, was dedicated Sunday with imposing religious services, and was attended by large congregations. The edifice will seat about twenty-one hundred persons, and has been erected at a cost of about $1,000,000.

Specie shipments to Europe from New York Saturday amounted to $800,000, of which $700,000 was coin; for the week, $3,420,000, principally American gold coin. Shipments to Havana, $250,000, Spanish and American gold coin. Customs receipts at New York for the week, $2,052,000.

A bill has been filed in Montgomery, Alabama, to have the recent sale of the Western railroad, in that State, and the transfer of the Montgomery and West Point railroad to the Western set aside, as a fraud on the creditors of the Montgomery and West Point railroad.

The Spencer Investigation Committee is still in session at Montgomery, Alabama. It is said that developments have been made going to show the corrupt use of money to keep up the Court House Legislature. The committee have not yet made public any of the testimony. The jewelry store of Benj. L. Hood, Albany, N. Y., was robbed by burglars, Sunday afternoon, of diamonds, watches, &c., valued at $15,000. Two men have been arrested on suspicion of being the burglars.

The postal treaty made at Berne, Switzerland, between the United States and the European nations, has been ratified, and Postmaster General Jewell has issued an order carrying it into effect on behalf of this nation.

A petition was presented to the Missouri Constitutional Convention on Friday from the Woman's Suffrage Association of that State, asking the insertion of a clause in the new constitution extending the ballot to women.

The composers of the Washington Chronicle who recently struck, are arranging to publish a daily paper, and have the support of the printers' union, bookbinders' and pressmen's unions, and several other trade associations.

Gov. Kellogg, of Louisiana, has filed with the Secretary of the State his veto of the bill passed during the extra session, making all State scrip of whatever character receivable for back taxes.

A dispatch from Portland, Oregon, reports that the warm rains of the past two weeks have increased a bountiful grain crop throughout that State.

The steamer Placencia which has arrived at Quebec after some days being ice bound off the northern coast, reports twenty sailing vessels and five steamers in field ice.

Delegate George Q. Cannon was on trial at Salt Lake City on Saturday on the charge of lascivious cohabitation, but no decision was arrived at in the case.

At the annual meeting of the Hebrew Chautauques of Philadelphia yesterday it was stated that the total expenditures were $17,530 96.

Marshal E. Snellier, for the past four years city editor of the Memphis (Tenn.) Avalanche, died Saturday night of consumption.

A St. Petersburg telegram announces that the Czar departed at 8 o'clock on Saturday evening for Berlin.

The National Musical Association of the United States meets to-day in Baltimore. The Prince Imperial, Frederick William, has returned to Berlin.

The wife of Don Carlos has arrived in Paris. POTATO BUG.—We were very much disgusted a few days ago, whilst digging up a square in our garden, where we had potatoes last year, to find that with nearly every spade-full of earth there came up one or more of the genuine Colorado Beetles, we forget the scientific or ontological name, but they were with their ten stripes and no mistake. As soon as exposed to the surface they gave signs of being in full life and vigor. This is the more remarkable as we were troubled last year with very few of them, and took particular pains in having our garden examined every morning and every bug, grub and egg effectually killed. This looks gloomy for any prospects of potatoes, because if where there were so few bugs last year they are now so abundant as to be thus easily discernable the inference is that the ground is fully infested with them. Besides, if the very cold weather of last winter, when the ground was frozen so thoroughly and deeply as it was, did not kill them, we have but little hope of escaping their ravages by means that would destroy most other living things.—Port Tobacco Times.

LIGHT AFTER TEN YEARS' DARKNESS.—Mrs. Mary Bare, aged 61 years, who lost one eyeball in youth, about ten years ago, lost the sight of the other from a cataract, and has been in total darkness since. On the 21st ultimo Dr. A. M. Henkle, of this city, undertook to operate for its removal, the operation being performed with the assistance of Dr. William Davies, of Churchville. The cataract removed was about the size of an ordinary shirt button, and was taken from the inside of the eyeball, which was split by the surgeon's knife. The operation was successful, and Mrs. Bare has had her sight restored.—Staunton Vindicator.

Letter from Leesburg.

[Correspondence of the Alexandria Gazette.] LEESBURG, VA., May 8.—The Loudoun Circuit Court has just adjourned. About 180 decrees were entered of which twenty-eight were final. They cover eighty-seven pages of the record book. The following order was made a rule of the court: "No sale shall be confirmed unless the sale be reported in open court and its confirmation asked for from the bar of the court, and unless the report of the commissioners of sale is accompanied by the certificate of the clerk of the court that the commissioners, or the one who acts, have given the bond required by the decree of sale." Only one sale was set aside and that upon an upset bid of about 25 per cent. upon the price obtained at the crying of the land, which, however, had been advanced upon by the bidder about 18 per cent. The party making the upset bid deposited with the commissioners of sale $340 and gave his bond in the penalty of $1,000 with security that the land should bring the upset bid of $8 25. The debtor in 1865 was offered $30 per acre for this land, but taking the advice of injudicious friends, refused to sell. The policy of the court is to continue all sales unless the price offered is a grossly inadequate one, and, as several of the farmlands will be offered, parties should attend our commissioners' sales where bargains may be anticipated.

Small farms sale, as is evidenced by the following sales made by J. M. Conard, executor of E. Roller: The appraisers rated 74 acres at $35. It sold in parcels of about 34 acres each at $27.25 and $37.00. Seven and a half acres of almost inaccessible mountain land, rated at $2.50, brought $2.80, and 6 1/2 acres, rated at $48, sold in parcels of 40 1/2 and 22 1/2 acres at $50. The last parcels were available land. The whole realized $3,401.31 against an appraised valuation of $3,281.25, and an assessed value of $3,511.

It is now, 3 p. m., oppressively warm; thermometer scoring 72°, and on Sunday it reached 88°.

The gentleman at Middlebrook who moved to divide the vote was Mr. E. L. Fred. Sunday.—Dr. Wm. Cross, an eminent and the senior physician in this place, died about 12 noon, aged about 72 years, of which he had practiced about 40.

CIVIL RIGHTS.—On Monday night "Mrs. Ann Seibert (colored), last from Boston, was put out of the passenger waiting-room at the Chesapeake and Ohio depot by the watchman, Mr. M. Doon, who said the company did not allow colored persons, except nurses, in there. The woman went to Harrisburg next day, where the United States court is in session, and went before the grand jury and made complaint. Her statement is that she was sent to Boston to learn the hairdressing business by her old master Mr. Beirne, of West Virginia, and on her return home, stopped in Staunton to pay a visit; that she was going back to West Virginia Monday night when the watchman violently put her out of the room. The watchman says he was acting under orders and used no more force than was necessary to carry out his duty.—Staunton Vindicator.

THE DESIGN of the medal struck off at the Philadelphia mint to commemorate the Mecklenburg declaration of independence, is described as follows: On one side is a hornet's nest, which is typical of the announcement by the king's officers that Mecklenburg was a hornet's nest of rebels. On the same side is also a liberty cap surrounded by the rays of the rising sun. Beneath are two clasped hands, which are typical of the united North and South at the close of the last war. On the reverse side, within a circle, are the inscriptions: "May 20th, 1775, and May 20th, 1875—Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence." The executive committee of the centennial ordered two thousand silver medals and a large number of copper impressions. The silver medals are of the value of fifty cents.

A STRANGE PHENOMENON.—There is now living in this county a gentleman who is a remarkable exemplification of the story so often told that a man's hair will sometimes turn gray in a single night. This case is peculiar in that in the cases of this kind, usually reported the parties are under the influence of some powerful excitement, but in this instance there was no mental agitation the gentleman having retired at night in his usual frame of mind, to wake up next morning and find his hair which before had only begun to streak with gray, a snowy white.—Tulsa Index.

Governor John M. Thayer, of Wyoming, left Omaha on Saturday in company with the delegation of Sioux now on their way to Washington to negotiate for the cession of the Black Hills. A party of miners who escaped from Red Cloud Agency about the 15th ult., going in the direction of the Black Hills, had been overhauled and brought back.

Could You Lend Me Ten Dollars?

"'Tis a beautiful thing to have plenty of friends, who have never an eye to their own selfish ends. But in shallow or selfishness, in sickness or health, Will extend you the aid of their strength or their wealth. There are not many of them if one—As I tested the matter—for fun— Making calls on a number, one day, 'Could you lend me ten dollars?' I'd say; And they Would reply: 'I am sorry, but—have bills to pay!'" Or say something that way. On a lucky old broker—a rich one—I called; He was happy and fat, with a round face, and bald. I had done him a "favor" in days that were gone. He had thanked me, with tears, and declared that upon Both his honor and soul he'd not rest. Till he'd paid me. I now thought to test His fidelity; so, with a sigh, 'Could you lend me ten dollars?' I said I 'Am sorry I can't, my dear friend—it's no lie—'I am short; that is why.' Then I called on a merchant—a warm friend of mine— Who had piled up his wealth like the bales in his store. 'I am delighted to see you, old fellow!' I said; And he gave me a poke in the ribs, in his gloe. 'So I sat down and spoke of the weather; We conversed fifteen minutes together; Then I said: 'I am busted and blue— Could you lend me ten dollars?' Oh, do!" And, what? His reply was, 'I wouldn't for worlds refuse you, But my notes are just due.' Next I called on a lawyer, a man of ability. 'His friendship is surely a thing of utility,' I was asked to myself, as I entered his door. 'Why, come in!' said the lawyer, his face beam-

I have got to establish a strong alibi, And must go!' I his reply.

To the house of a banker I next took my way. I'd enjoyed his warm friendship for many a day. He had banded notes and due bills in heaps that were thick, And bundles of greenbacks the size of a brick.

"A good morning—good morning!" he'd he, While I thought in his eye I could see The true friendship I sought—the sincere 'Could you lend me ten dollars?' 'Oh dear! I fear.' He replied, "that I can't for the end of the year, With its payments is near."

Next I went to a doctor whose practice was great. He'd an income immense and a wealthy estate. He had styled me his "friend," for in days long ago, When his practice was small, his resources quite low.

I had aided him some, and he swore He'd be grateful to me evermore. Hence the doctor I thought I would try. 'Could you lend me ten dollars?' I said I 'Oh, no!'

I'm forgetting my patients; away I must fly!" Was the doctor's reply.

To a man of much money and leisure I went; His investments were large, yielding twenty per cent. I had known him for years, and his beautiful wife Had some reason to thank me for saving her life.

"When she went through the ice that had broke, And she could not, of course, swim a stroke. Unto him I'd said, with my plea; 'Could you lend me ten dollars?' 'Ah, me!' Said he; 'I was going to ask you this moment, you see, For the loan of a V!'" —Saturday Night.
